The Adventures of Max & Sig Book One

“When I grow up, I would like to be an explorer,” says Max.

“Sounds like fun,” replies Sig. “When I am older than you, I will be an explorer too.”

“But I will always be your older brother,” says
Max. “I was born before you.”

“Let’s play make-believe and we can both be explorers,” says Sig. “And maybe we can make believe that I am your older sister.”

“Okay,” says Max. “When we play make-believe, you can be my older sister sometimes.”

“I would like to go to the Arctic and see the animals that live there,” says Sig. “But how will we get there?”

“I will fly a plane,” says Max. “But first we need to put on our warm clothes. It is cold in the Arctic.”

“I will be your co-pilot and give you directions,” says Sig. “You have to fly north to reach the Arctic.”
